To Those Who Would Build

ON the pages of this, our new Book of Home Plans, are shown the newest, most attractive plans in home construction. The plans have been prepared by practical architects and embody features that lend distinction to even the most modest designs.

When Selecting a Home—

it is exceedingly essential that it be accurate as to plan. No feature increases the cost of construction to so great an extent as waste material—a waste caused by inaccurate plans. It is with somewhat of pride that we present our plans for your use—plans that have been proven accurate by actual construction.

The Blueprint Working Plan—

made from the original plan, to incorporate your own ideas, the same are purchased from our Company. Should you desire any changes for any of the Homes illustrated is without charge, when materials may be made at actual cost.

Possibly You are Interested—in modernizing your present home. Should this be the situation, we shall be glad to call, offer suggestions for the improvement, and estimate the cost of the contemplated changes. A reliable Contractor will be recommended should you be interested. This places you under no obligation, and is without charge. We shall be pleased to have you visit our office and let us assist you in the plans for your home—or should it be more convenient for you—'phone, if you desire us to call.

THERE is a restful charm, a sort of quiet, well bred dignity unaffected by time or style, that distinguishes the Old New England Homes. One of the first steps in the mastery of self is to know the value of right environment and influence. It would be a violation of a natural law if homes of the above class should produce other than men or women of clean purpose.

THIS design is one of the most popular types of cottage homes. Simple in lines, yet exceedingly attractive with floor plans that are practical, convenient and economical. This is an ideal plan for those who entertain their friends, as the living room and the dining room are really one large room. The fireplace lends an air of pleasing hospitality. In appearance, design and home comfort this home will rank with the most pretentious, yet the cost is comparatively low.

HUMAN betterment is first generated in the heart of the home. There is a spark in the inner being of men and women which prompts them to aid the helpless and give a word of cheer to the cheerless. Those who make the above design their home will daily be prompted to radiate the sunshine its comforts bring.

HERE, today, as in the century past, the old colonial home is preferred by many who appreciate its beautiful lines, its substantial comfort and its sentimental attractions. A view of this type of home brings forth thought of the colonial days when the love of home and woman were the most sacred emotions in the hearts of men. The environment of such a home can produce only men and women of sterling worth.

A GREAT credit to this nation is the vast amount of home building. The knowledge that in this country there are millions of men who unselfishly spend to their last dollar for their families raises the standard of all citizens. But stop and think—it was but a natural law, as old as the age of man, which they followed. Each was amply repaid for his unselfishness by the happy wife and the congenial and loving environment of the contented family.

MILLIONS of people have happy homes within our borders and there are millions more who, with earnest desire and determination, can as well own their home as to pay rent to a landlord. Investment of money in a home pays in happy contentment in comfortable surroundings. The home illustrated above is a modern type of the American story and a half bungalow so popular in all parts of our country.

IN all ages the greatest achievements of man and his aspirations have been represented in building structures of habitations. Without homes in which to dwell in congenial happiness, comfort and kindness, the whole world is lost. Many a heartache is mended and many a family is held together by the loving embrace of the happy environment and culture developed in the home.

THE general attitude of most of us is one of indefinite expectancy towards days and years to come, in the course of which life will unfold the things most worth while. Very often we are blind to facts which are always clearly in front of us. A home in which the family can live in cheerful comfort and happiness is surely worth while; for example, a well designed, handsome and convenient New England cottage like the above.

UNNECESSARY work is always unfair work. It is unfair for the housewife to be forced to take hundreds of unnecessary steps in the daily house-keeping routine, because she was not considered in planning the house.

In designing the plans of the above home the architect considered ease and economy for the wife who does her own work.

DIGNITY and good design can be expressed just as well in a bungalow as in a two-story house, especially when it is built of solid construction. There is always an air of solid permanence about such a bungalow which affects its market value very favorably. The interior arrangement is very practicable, and suitable for any family of ordinary size. Whatever time you use in examining this plan will not be wasted. The cost is low, while the material is first-class, and the construction standard.
